Dear Madam, dear Sir,

The University of Montpellier Foundation is glad to announce the 2018 call for proposals for the “Jean Bilard” international research award on doping in sport.

Created in 2014 to reward young and gifted researchers, the purpose of this award is to encourage, or support, the redaction of research works on doping in sport.

This work should take place in at least one of the following research fields: Social and human sciences, sports and physical activities sciences, education sciences, health sciences (including medicine and pharmacology), Law, Economics and management

In 2018 the Foundation will award 1 research award granted with 3000 euros, to one doctor, researcher or teacher aged less than 35, and having defended a thesis in French or published a paper in French or English on the theme of doping in sport.

If possible, we will ask you to relay this information through your own professional network, to encourage possible candidates to apply.

The rules of this award, awarding criteria and further details are available on our website www.fondation.edu.umontpellier.fr. The deadline for the transmission of the application is set on the 30 of June 2018.

We remain at your disposal for any further question or complement of information.

Yours sincerely

University of Montpellier Foundation
